DRY WEATHER SHRIVELS WHEAT

The crop situation here is becoming more serious with the lengthening of the dry spell. A week ago there was some hope of getting ten bushel per acre yield on some fields of wheat, but now the lack of dry and windy weather have taken a further heavy toll of the crop and a downward revision of estimates is necessary. Today six or seven bushels is the best that can be expected, and many fields will not return the seed that was planted in this spring. Wheat is coming along fairly good in the irrigation country. Farmers are now giving the grain the second irrigation. Without any rain for a month, the crops require a lot of water.

WHEAT PRICES

Winnipeg wheat closing prices on Wed. July 13: July 15, October 90 7/8; December 90 3/4; May 96 5/8.

The Brooks Golf Club extends a hand of fellowship to Bassano golfers to come to Brooks next Sunday, whether they intend to enter the tournament or not. Those desiring to go should call in to meet with the secretary of the local club, W. K. Webb, by 11 a.m. Saturday, so as to make arrangements as to how many visitors to expect.

BOARD OF TRADE

The board of trade session last Wednesday was a busy one, dealing with the new sports ground, reported in another column, swimming pool business, road work, and various other items.

H. Johnson in reporting for the fair grounds trustees, gave a financial statement of the first of July celebration; receipts totalled $1,000; expenses $1,000; leaving a net balance of $500 to the good.

Letters from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Railways and government expenditures were read by the secretary and filed.

Wm. McEwain reported on the road work in the north of town. This road was the scene of a lot of activity last week on the Wednesday half holiday when a number of local citizens volunteered good support, but he was not in the best form.

Bulmer hit a home run in the 7th, but Downes and Marquardt had struck out before him and the bases were vacant.

Bassano: Leonard 2b, Pike 1st, Simpson 2b, LePage c, Knoch 1b, Redmond c, Downes 1b, Marquardt c, Bulmer p.

Patricia, Holton 2b, Willey ss, Bihel p, Ward 2b, Tupper 1b, Conner c, Connor 1b, Judson c.

Bassano Juniors Top League. Containing their winning streak, the Bassano juniors scored a 1-0 victory over the Patricia lads in their game following the inter-district last Sunday. It was a seven inning contest, and the score was, 1-0 in six innings. The Bassano lads made sure of victory by scoring four more runs in the seventh.

No figures are available on all the league in the league, but the Bassano lads head the standing with eight wins and only one loss.

Bassano: Ubertino 2b, MacDonald 1b, Perry Johnson p, Schares c, Mead 1b, Gayford ss, Stiles 3b, Hux Johnson c, Wight 1b.

Other Games Last Sunday. While the Bears were losing to Patricia last Sunday, the league leading Brooks team, now out, 13-17 in a free hitting game, was victorious over the "Bassano" position with a 6-1 win over the Rainier fall-enders.

Brooks' coming next strong to beat Bassano and clinch first place in the league. It is expected they will bring a large following of fans with them. The Bears will be out to do their best in an attempt to break the Brooks record.

If Brooks loses and Rosemary win next Sunday, these two teams will be tied for first place.

The game here next Sunday starts at 2:00 o'clock.

Proposed New Sports Ground Endorsed by Bassano Board of Trade

Located West of School—Would Include Racetrack, Athletic Field, and Baseball Diamond—Board Project — Ideal Sports Ground Is Planned

Bassano's sports, athletic events, school track meets, and sports gathering of every description will in future be held at a new sports grounds if plans of the local Board of trade are realized. The plan, which has been under consideration and investigation for some time, was submitted to the board of trade at the meeting last Wednesday night by Wm. McEwain, of the public affairs committee. Most of the work was prepared by H. A. Holmes.

The location of the new grounds is west of the school, running north to the Edwards road, and south to the lane behind the E. P. Curtis home. There is enough land in this area for a race track, grandstand, baseball diamond, jumping and springing grounds, parking space for cars, etc.

The plan includes the building of a road, setting out of trees and bushes around all sides, a wind-break, the building of irrigation ditches, the grading of a race track, and many other details.

A nestle not the area within the proposed park limits is owned by the C. P. R. and two or three lots

BEARCATS LOSE BUT STILL IN THIRD POSITION

Last Game on League Schedule to Be Played Here Next Sunday Against Leading Brooks Team.

BASSANO JUNIORS TO LEAGUE

STANDING IN LEAGUE

Dropping a game but still holding their place in the league, the Bearcats took an 8-3 beating at the hands of the Patricia Pumpkins last Sunday.

Patricia showed vastly improved form over the previous game with Bassano, and touched Bulmer for 13 hits. The Bassano pitched returned good support, but he was not in the best form.

Bulmer hit a home run in the 7th, but Downes and Marquardt had struck out before him and the bases were vacant.

are owned by private individuals. The rest of the land is in the name of the town and the school board. It is anticipated no difficulty will be encountered in acquiring clear title to all the land, which will probably be vested in the name of the town.

In order to get sufficient room it will be necessary to include in the park part of the present school grounds. It is proposed to cut off a section of the west side of the school grounds and make compensation by enlarging the school grounds on the north side of the building.

Some equipment on the old fair grounds can be moved for use on the new sports park.

Figures have been obtained on the estimated cost of the ditch work, grading, moving equipment, tree planting, and fence building. It is believed this can be done at a cost of approximately $600.

HUSSAR NEWS

HUSSAR, July 11—The Hussar baseball team defeated the Gem team in a game here on Sunday 10 to 6. Gem was in the lead, with four runs in the first inning, till the last half of the fourth when Hussar tied the score six all. Then Hussar led 10 to 6. The eighth Gem tied the score nine all. Hussar got the only run in the ninth inning. A. Andersen and H. Snellings were umpires. Those playing were: Hussar, J. Bell, P. O. McEwain, J. J. Moffat, O. Hoff, L. Moffat, G. LeGrandeur, M. V. Andersen, R. Snellings, and G. Montgomery; Gem, P. Marquis, B. Polcy, J. Douglas, J. George, W. Pollock, G. Douglas, D. Fortney, J. Royer, C. Schreiber.

Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Wilson, of Texas, were guests at the Hussar grounds on Saturday. R. LeGrandeur, left on Sunday for Calgary where he is one of the judges in the stampede. Gordon LeGrandeur, with Margaret and Nettie, and Mrs. Brown, and Mr. and Mrs. T. Burdett, an American, motored up on Monday to attend the stampede.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Lawson and Philip Pugh went to Calgary on Sunday. Mr. Lawson is one of the officials in the stampede, and Philip will take part in the Stampede.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Brown and Ruth, and Mr. Reeves, also Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lawson and Mr. and Mrs. G. Nelson, left on Sunday for Calgary where they are to attend the stampede.

Advantages claimed for the new sports ground are that it will be more convenient than the old site, be right in town and only a few blocks from the main business section; that it can be irrigated, thus enabling the growing of trees and bushes for shelter belt and shade; and that it consolidates the sporting activities of the town, having baseball diamond, athletic field, and race track all within one acre.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawke and his sister, Miss Laura, arrived at Sioux Lookout, Ont., where he is visiting her, on Calgary on Monday for the stampede at Lethbridge. They returned from camp at Arrowwood on Saturday. Gordon LeGrandeur and T. Burdett went down in the truck to bring home the teams, and Mr. and Mrs. Gustavsen, with Anna and Miss McCallister, Frances, Josephine, and Peggy Hildner, and Mrs. Nelson, H. J. Bell with Mrs. McEwain, all rode, motored down to bring their teams home. They report a very successful week under the supervision of Mr. T. Burdett and Miss C. Murdoch, of Bassano.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Brown, and W. A. Treacy motored to Arrowwood on Monday to bring home the boys' teams.

The Misses Lila and Evelyn Clift, and Mr. and Mrs. Hansen and babies, and Louis Hoeght motored up from Arrowwood on Sunday to visit friends. Louis Hoeght will maintain here with his mother for a little while before leaving to take charge of an elevator in the Peace River, and Mr. and Mrs. Hansen will be leaving Arrowwood on Thursday for Calgary.

P. M. Mahoney was a business visitor in Hussar Monday.

GEM NEWS

GEM, July 13—Farmers have been having during the past few days, and an excellent crop of alfalfa is being cut. Almost every farm in the district. Second irrigation has also begun, and the crops are promising to be of the best to be found here.

Strangers passing through Gem colony for the first time are surprised at the beauty and growth to be seen on all sides. The C.P.R. farms are just now looking their best, and are well worth a visit, particularly that of the water tower. It is a sight whose news are the admiration of all residents and visitors.

Sisters Norberts and Blainde, of the Gem Hospital, Port Arthur, are expected visitors in the colony, and during their short stay will be giving their nursing friends a glimpse of the Gem Hospital.

On Sunday last many members of Gem community enjoyed the annual picnic held on the Patchett farm in the Hudson district.

A record attendance is anticipated at Wednesday night, July 13, when a horse show and dancing will be given by the Gem community.

Messrs. Nelsmith, Porter, and Griffin, of the C.P.R., passed through the colony recently.

Mrs. T. Wada and Mrs. C. Villet were Bassano visitors on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Scott's Gypsy Moth, Howard Sandgate, Bassano pilot, emerged as the premier first prize show staged at Calgary last Saturday.

Sandgate won the balloon bursting and spot landing competitions, came first in the relay race, and first in the bombing contest.

George Scott rode with Sandgate in the relay. George Clarke, of the Calgary team, piloted the other plane in Sandgate's team in the relay. Clarge was behind in his lap but Sandgate overcame him, opportunely lead and won 1b event.

Slim Moorhead, another Bassano pilot, was observer with Sandgate in the bomb dropping contest. The local team won which, Slim dropped his mine close to the target.

Pilot Sandgate also thrilled the crowd with an exhibition of barrel rolling, looping, spins, and inverted flying.

Red McCall, war ace, won the harness competition, using Dr. Scott's plane.

The doctor's Gypsy Moth was carefully groomed for the event, but it was not in the hands of the skilled fliers.

Dr. Scott attended the show as one of the judges. A number of other Bassano citizens witnessed the show.

ELINORE BARRY

TENTH INSTALLMENT

The story so far: Joyce Ashton, poor seamstress, had been in a tactical accident in Chicago, suffering loss of memory. Two years later she awoke one morning after a fall from her horse to find herself, under the name of Prilla, married to Neil Packard, rich California fruit packer. From letters in her desk she learned something about her life in the two year interval, and realized she had been a heartless, reckless young woman and that she is seriously involved in an affair with a man named Mattland. She decided that at all costs she would end it, but she found Mattland hard to manage. Her troubles were further complicated when she read a letter referring to a baby—was it her child? The writer, Sophie, thought Prilla ought to have with her. To San Francisco where she went with her husband was away, she met Robert Alnoworth, an author whom she very much admired. She returned home just before Neil came back from Chicago. Now go on with the story.

"Can you stand it to have only me for dinner this once?" Joyce asked. "Whoopee! Just ask me, can't I?" he replied. "You know that, Prilla old kid. I'll go up and wash and be right down again."

When Packard came down the stairs Joyce divined his intention to kiss her again, and she moved to ward the dining room immediately saying: "Dickie! Just ask me, can't I?" at least, he sits at table and snaps up what favors he can persuade me to give him, don't you, darling? He has his regular dinner in the kitchen."

"Where do you want his chair?" inquired Packard politely. "Here you are, boy, get up and let's see how good your table manners are. They sat down opposite each other at the small round table with Dickie between them. Joyce was struck by the lingering bewilderment on Packard's face. There seemed to be something he couldn't quite understand, but he asked for an explanation. "Gee! It's good to be home again," he began. "I sure do hate Chicago!" She asked politely, "Was the conference a success?" Packard started. Joyce flushed. "Oh, is it something I'm not supposed to ask about?" rushing into the first remark which occurred to her in an effort to cover her embarrassment. "Good Lord, no!" he exclaimed hastily. "Only... only..." he hesitated. "I'm sorry, Prilla, I can't keep up with you. You've jumped me so hard about taking shop and said so often you didn't give a damn about what happened so long as you didn't have to hear about it—that—"

"Well, I don't want to know everything that happened. I just wondered if you had a successful trip in general," said Joyce. She began to wonder if Prilla had ever had a decent word for anyone.

"Oh, sure, we fixed up what I went for and got the new branch office planned out and ready for business," he said.

"Sam said there was a fire at the plant here," remarked Joyce casually. "but almost no damage done. Had you heard about it?"

"Yes, I called up from the city before I came down. He told me what you've been doing with yourself, Prilla. How's everyone in the gang? Do been in much?"

"Don't know. I just got home today myself," replied Joyce. "I have not seen anybody I know for nearly two weeks. The first two days after you went they wouldn't let me alone, and I wanted to be quiet, so I walked off and went up to the city alone."

There was an uncomfortable silence. Packard ate for a few moments with his eyes fastened on his food. Joyce understood without doubt that he didn't believe she had spent all that time in San Francisco alone. Why should he? Suddenly she knew that she wanted him to believe it. It was perfectly obvious to her that he loved Prilla, and that he was a little afraid of her.

Joyce wondered with a sudden thump of her heart how he would like a baby around the house. If she could only ask him about that baby in New York.

"I promised, Dickie to throw a stick for him," she said. "I'll sit at the table, if you care to join us, come along, and she ran across the terrace and down the wide stone steps to the stretch of lawn at the top of the garden, without waiting for a reply. Packard lit a cigarette and followed her more slowly. By the time he joined them she was racing around with Dickie, having a lively game and secretly anxious to wonder what he thought of the unusual sight of Prilla enjoying a childishly simple pleasure of this kind.

She turned to him and asked very abruptly, "Are you very tired after your trip?"

"Good Lord, no!" he answered, evidently startled. "Why?"

"It's going to be glorious moonlight in a few minutes. Let's go for a horseback ride!" His look of blank amazement at this suggestion caused her heart to sink for a moment. Suppose he refused! A gust of angry impatience struck her. If they didn't hurry, somebody would come along and spoil her plan.

"What's the matter? Afraid I'll cause a scandal if anyone discovers you're been out with your wife?" she demanded.

"Hell!" grinned Packard. "I should worry about that. But you can't blame me for... for wondering if I heard you right. You—we haven't spent many evenings together lately."

There was something in his voice which hurt Joyce a little. She had not found him exactly interesting so far, but she already liked him enough to be sorry for the way Prilla had been treating him. "Well, it's up to you," she replied. "I'm going for a ride, and if you want to come, all right." Secretly she quailed at the idea of going out alone for the first time. Would it be light enough for safety? Could she handle Rosalie?

But Packard accepted without further questioning. "I'll tell Sam to saddle up while we get into our things," he said. "Run on in, darling. It's light out before any of the car shows up."

"Take Dickie with you and leave him with Sam," said Joyce, and trembling with excitement, she raced into the house and upstairs to her big closet, where she proceeded to kick off her slippers and pull her dress over her head as rapidly as possible. She was just drawing her boots on when she heard Packard cross the bedroom and go through to his dressing room.

Secretly five minutes later they were hurrying downstairs and out to the stable.

She uttered as they rode so slowly that Neil kept eying her in an apprehensive fashion. She decided he must be worrying about the accident she had had and probably wondering what mad idea the moonlight would inspire in her tonight. Well, if he were looking for trouble at that kind he would be disappointed!

"Want a cigarette dear?" he asked once, holding out his case toward her as they rode at a trot together on a short level stretch along the hills. Joyce accepted it but did not dare to try lighting it while they were moving.

"You light it, please," She handed it back to him.

"That gives me permission to kiss you," he remarked, smiling as he handed her back the lighted cigarette.

"But what you want to kiss is my wife!" retorted Joyce, urging him into a quick trot.

"Here's one man who does," he replied, easily catching up with her. Riding close to her horse he put his arm around her and tried to draw her toward him. Joyce was alarmed, this time, so much that she was almost of being kissed as at the danger of such reckless actions while on horseback.

Packard looked surprised, but he obediently fell away a little. Joyce was undecided whether to be contemptuous of him for his lack of spirit or to conclude that his experience with Prilla, when he crossed her, had probably been so unpleasant that he had learned his lesson thoroughly.

Try as she would, Joyce could not keep Robert Alnoworth from her thoughts. The beauty of the night brought vividly to mind his delightful personality. It would be so perfect with the right man!

Joyce wondered most of the way back if her glance puzzled Neil very much. She would have chafed willingly enough, but nothing except dangerous remarks seemed to occur to her. Neil was little help for her too much in silence. What was he thinking? Looking at him she thought with amusement, "Princess!"

"Don't you feel well, Prilla? You're sort of quiet tonight," said Packard, in what Joyce described to herself as a "cautious voice."

"I feel absolutely wonderful!" she replied with spirit. "Can't I enjoy myself just once without shrieking over it?"

"Oh, sure, only it's... it's not exactly 'you'."

Joyce, torn between impatience and amusement, answered, "Well, whatever I do is me, just it!"

Packard made no reply to this, but a little later on he said earnestly, "Look here, sweetheart, I stopped to see mother today on my way down. She'd like awfully to... be friends with you. Won't you, please? I'd give anything in the world if you'd go and see her and just be nice to her a few minutes. You needn't go often or spend much time there, but if you... she's so anxious to have things friendly. It's tough on her, my being her only son and my wife never going to see her. She's getting old, you know."

Before Neil stopped Joyce felt a lump coming into her throat. His voice was so pleading and so anxious. She remembered the sweet-faced woman whose picture she had found in his desk drawer, and how she wondered if his mother were still living.

Perfidious Savages

In the Torres Straits Islands in the East Indies here are no trees suitable for canoe building. So he natives, a cruel treacherous race, import their canoes from the Fly River Delta in New Guinea—another place with an unenviable reputation. The distance between these two places is over four hundred miles, and no native in that region travels even one-quarter of that distance.

When a canoe is wanted the word is simply passed on from tribe to tribe. On the strength of this vague order a canoe is built. Then it is relayed back. Each tribe of bloodthirsty cannibals tests and discusses it before passing it on. Finally the payment, shell necklaces, spear points, arm bands, makes its way to the canoe builders in the same leisurely fashion.

There is reason for this honesty in savages to whom perfidy is natural. If any of the parties in this complicated transaction were to risk being dishonest, their credit would be ruined. And though these natives may kill each other, they hold barter inviolate.

Even savages understand that in commerce it pays to be honest, and to let the world realize your honesty! So in modern business. Advertising must be honest. It is a proof of honesty. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its quality, usefulness and value.

The man who advertises is inviting your inspection. He is letting his goods stand on their own merit. He can't afford to deceive you. You can depend on him. That's why it pays to read advertising and to buy advertised goods.

Any one can spend money—the reader of advertisements spends wisely.

The Sonotone
A red headed boy, fresh from Ireland, applied for a position in a Chicago messenger office. After examining him the manager sent him on an errand to one of the fashionable districts. Half an hour later the manager was called to the telephone. "Have you a red headed boy working for you?"

"Yes."
"Well, this is the porter of Oakland Mansions, where your boy delivered a message. He insisted on coming in the front way and was as persistent that I was forced to drop a pin."
"Good heavens! you didn't shoot him!"
"No, but I want my gun back!"

THE PICTURES

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell star in "The First Year," coming to the Orpheum Friday night only this week, July 14.

In love, in courtship, on the honeymoon, and in the first year, tender, romantic, sometimes hilarious, speeded delightfully with love, laughter and these event moments of making up.

"The Kid from Spain" on Saturday only July 14. See Eddie Cantor matching wit with crooks, cops, and Mexican bad men. Hall, Eddie, El Cantor, see him in his fight of sunny Mexico! Here's entertainment to remember a lifetime.

"Caladry" is coming next week-end. A tremendous drama of life, the screen picture that has stirred up more comment and enthusiasm than any other in the history of motion pictures. Whoever it has been shown, audiences have acclaimed it. Critics have been unanimous in their praise. The story of a love that held, with faith and courage, in defiance of the rushing Caladry called life!

CARD OF THANKS
We desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends for their kindness and sympathy extended in our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Harvey and Family.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their regular monthly meeting at Mrs. I. E. Wenzel's on Thursday.
